Lyon County Family Health Care Advisor Honored

Melissa Wynn, Lyon and Caldwell counties FHCA, was awarded the Lyon County Chamber of Commerce Member of the Year Award 2007 – 2008. Below is an excerpt from Lyon County Chamber of Commerce president, Kim Shoulders' introduction for Melissa Wynn, Chamber Member of the Year 2008 awardee:

Melissa does a lot through her job at Kentucky Homeplace. She is on all sorts of boards, and very active in Champions, and does a lot of "Above and Beyond" work that folks don't know about. She uses her resources through her job, but also supplies clothing, and all sorts of moral and emotional support to the less fortunate in our community and does it in a kind manner.

She has people's best interest in mind and goes over and above her boundaries as a public health and service coordinator, personally rounding up appliances for those who don't have them, heaters for people who are cold, dentures for those without, mammograms and routine health screenings for those who may be living on borrowed time, running water for those who do not have it.

The thing she gives that impresses me the most is her heart and her time. She is a one-woman army against people living in poverty. There is danger in what she does, too. People who have been let down by the system, their family, and others are slow to trust, and Melissa puts herself right in there, in their homes. She goes willingly into homes we'd never find, offering compassion and help. Between her work with the elderly, the kids, and those who have fallen through the cracks, she has single-handedly inspired hope in people who had none.

Melissa Wynn, family health care advisor at Kentucky Homeplace, took home the (Lyon County Chamber of Commerce) Member of the Year award.

Chamber President Kim Shoulders called Wynn "a lady who goes above and beyond."

"She gives hope to those who have none," Shoulders said.

"It was an honor; I was shocked. It was nice," Wynn said. "I enjoy my job; it's rewarding when I know I helped someone."

March 2008

Dear fellow Kentuckians:

The Kentucky Homeplace program has continued serving the uninsured, underinsured and underserved citizens of Kentucky. Family health care advisors have encouraged preventive care services and participated in community service projects and local events in addition to their regular assignment – assisting clients with their needs.

Here's a summary of services for this quarter, January 1, 2008 – March 31, 2008: the number of unduplicated clients served was 6,456; the amount of medications accessed were $7,199,782; other services values accessed totaled $762,751; and number of services was 127,815. The top client medical conditions included hypertension, high cholesterol, diabetes, heart disease, and mental health.

Kentucky Homeplace and its employees are deeply involved in their communities and local agencies. They use every resource available to help out the Commonwealth's citizens. They work tirelessly to get their clients what they need and have a "never give up" attitude. This quarter, we are saluting one of our FHCAs, Melissa Wynn, who was recognized for her contribution as Lyon County Chamber of Commerce Member of the Year 2007 – 2008. I want to especially congratulate Melissa upon her recognition award. Melissa and her fellow FHCAs are the heart of Kentucky Homeplace.

The entire quarterly report is posted on the UK Center for Excellence in Rural Health's Web page for your review. Gina Reid from the Barren County Health Department provided training to all staff on adult immunization recommendations. The information that she provided will allow our clients to become better educated about disease prevention. Peggy Gillock worked with numerous community members to obtain donations for a benefit auction to assist the families that were affected by the tornado outbreak in January that killed four people. The group raised over $25,000 to assist those affected by the storms. Velma Koostra provided the Bowling Green Senior Citizens Center with information about Kentucky Homeplace. Various Vision and Health/Cancer Coalition meetings were also attended by staff throughout the quarter.

CLIENT ENCOUNTERS
Actual situations encountered by our family health care advisors this past quarter

I received a referral from one of our legislators to see what we could do to help an infant and her family. This special little girl was a 17-month-old with many special needs. She was born premature to young parents who had married after graduation from high school. When the baby was born, she was placed on life support and not expected to survive. Her mother sat by her side for months in the hospital, unable to hold her in her arms.

The father left when the baby was six-weeks-old. He came to see her once a month for the following seven months, but hasn't seen his daughter since. At six-months of age, the baby was released from the hospital to go home. She had a tracheostomy tube (trach), a nasogastric (NG) feeding tube, and was ventilator dependent with O₂. Still, she was not expected to survive very long. The baby and mother live with the mother's retired parents, who are also full-time caregivers to the baby. The mother is at the baby's side every minute of every day and night.

The baby was two-years old in April. The mother is currently trying to locate her husband and have him give up his paternal rights. This must be done so that the mother can be the sole guardian for her child and make decisions on her behalf.

The doctors say that the baby doesn't see nor hear. However, she loves cartoons, the movie Happy Feet, toys and balloons. The mother has never been away from Katelynn more than a few hours at a time. She works several days a month for her father while her mother takes care of the baby. The work has given her enough money to buy an older car that takes them back and forth from their home to the hospital. She hopes that one day she will have her own place, but still close to her parents.

Kentucky Homeplace has been able to give support to the grandparents introducing them to the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) and helping the grandmother receive diabetic supplies through the patient assistance program.

The mother was referred to Vocational Rehabilitation to continue on with schooling, Commission for Babies with Special Needs, Antenatal Results and Choices (ARC) for support groups on line, Appalachian Foothills for Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

I stay in close contact with this family hoping to make their lives a little easier by offering any support or researching any question that they might have. The mother is trying to take college courses on-line so she can support them and to better their lives. Her desire is to help her child be all that she can be and live a quality life.

I have been inspired by this little girl and her mother. Watching them with each other puts things in perspective. I hope they inspire you, too.

My client is a 60-year-old lady who recently lost her husband to cancer. She had become very depressed and was taking anti-depressants; however, they just did not seem to work. While talking with her in my office, I suggested that maybe she would enjoy having a job. She had never worked outside the home and felt that she would not be qualified for any kind of position.

I made a call to the Big Sandy Community Action program and talked with the director of the senior citizen job training. The director was very encouraging and wanted to meet with my client. My client was nervous about meeting with them alone, so I went with her for support. The Senior Citizen Job Training Program was able to place my client in one of the local elementary school's Resource Center. She is very happy there and feels that she has a purpose in life now. Being able to access and network with local organizations helped my client be able to get back to enjoying her life.

My client is a 65-year-old woman who lived alone and is in very bad health. She has a heart condition and breathing problems. She lived in a mobile home that had insufficient heating (a wood and coal stove) and was in great need of repairs. There are large holes around the pipes and she had difficulty keeping her house warm with temperatures in the 20-degree range. She made several trips outside during the nighttime to bring in wood for the fire. The smoke from the stovepipes made it difficult for her to breathe. The windows and door were in very bad condition also.

She said she could no longer live in these conditions and asked if any other housing is available. After completing the necessary paperwork and enrolling her in Kentucky Homeplace, I began searching for other housing in the community. Several phone calls later, I was able to put her in touch with the local Housing Authority and through several available funds, she moved into an apartment. I completed a follow-up home visit with her today and she is doing much better in the apartment. She is very thankful for our help.

I was in my office working when a 26-year-old man came in and said that the Community Base Service office had referred me to him. He needed to see a surgeon to have his toe-nails removed; he had been having this problem for almost ten months.

He had been going to different emergency rooms so that they would write him a prescription for antibiotics. He said that this would help for a while until the infection came back. He took off his shoe and sock and proceeded to show me his toes. My heart really went out to him and I knew that his condition had to be very painful.

He was a husband and father of two small children. They had recently moved to the local area because his wife's family lived here. While visiting her family one weekend, their home burned and they lost everything. The family offered them temporary shelter.

There was no way I could make an appointment and send him home without at least trying to get him some help. He said the doctor wanted $500 dollars to remove the nails and that they just did not have that kind of money.

I knew he would be eligible for what is called a sliding fee scale at the local clinic, but was unsure if they would do surgery on his toes. I called and talked to one of the receptions that I know and she said they would do it!

We called and got all the paperwork that they needed him to bring with him. The cost to him would be only $10; and, if he didn't have it the day of his appointment, he could pay later. I went ahead and made him an appointment for the next day.

I received a call from a family member concerning their 82-year-old mother. She had been released from the hospital the previous day. She is on oxygen and a nebulizer with respiratory medications. The client didn't have any medication insurance. She was eligible for Medicare D, but had refused to sign into their program. She had very limited income and could not afford the medication she was prescribed.

I enrolled the client into our program and did a home visit with her. I found out that her breathing medication could be covered through her durable medical supplier. I contacted them about supplying her medications and they informed me that when they had been unable to get approval for her through her Medicare plan. Now, they were going to have to pick up the equipment if she could not make payment arrangements.

I contacted Medicare and found there was a discrepancy in her date of birth, according to records they had received. I asked her family to go to the Social Security office and take care of the changes that were needed. During this time I had contacted her doctor's office and they provided samples for her until the medication could be supplied by her durable medical supplier. They continued to work with the client until the matter was resolved. It took almost a week to get everything that was needed. I also was able to help the client with other medications through the indigent program. This client was so grateful to have someone that could work with her family to give guidance and instructions on what to do.

Recently, I received a referral from a local agency on a family of three who needed assistance with eyeglasses. I contacted the family, scheduled a home visit and enrolled all three into our program. The interview revealed that all three members of this household, father, mother and their 26-year-old daughter, had other medical issues. All three are on Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and Medicaid which covers their basic medical needs.

I was able to provide additional educational materials on their diseases. However, one major obstacle did exist for which they had not been able to find a solution. Their daughter has Spina Bifida, and is confined to a wheelchair and transportation had become a major problem. Lifting her in-and-out of their small car in their physical condition was becoming nearly impossible as was handling her wheelchair. The family had at one time owned a van with a wheelchair lift, but they had both worn out and were no longer functional. The parents asked if I could help.

After searching the internet and researching other resources, I contacted the Spina Bifida Association of Kentucky. After several attempts, I finally got the clients into direct contact with them and someone from the organization scheduled a home visit with them to make an evaluation.

This week, I made a routine telephone contact with the family to check on progress. When the mother answered the phone, she was ecstatic. All three of them received new eyeglasses through the Kentucky Vision Program, and also had just received a refurbished van with a wheelchair lift through the Spina Bifida Association. While I have a lot of successes in my years with the Kentucky Homeplace Program, this has been one of the most gratifying experiences that I have ever had.

I have two clients (husband and wife) that were in desperate need of dental services. He had had a very rare, life threatening illness a few years ago. The wife had ignored her own health problems in order to take care of her husband

The first place I referred them to was the community health center. The dentist saw them both and said they needed all their teeth surgically removed, but he could not do it in his office; they needed an oral surgeon. The wife was sent home on antibiotics for infection that was being caused by her teeth. She was told this would not get better until she had the surgery to remove all of her teeth. She continued to run a temperature of at least 99° every day.

I then referred both clients to Surgery on Sunday in Lexington. I faxed the clients' information to them and within a few months, Surgery on Sunday called and had them come to Lexington for their consult visit. They then set up their surgery date and had them come back to Lexington for their pre-op work to be completed. The couple finally had their surgery done on March 16th. Both clients will be going back on March 24th for their post-op visits. I will also be working with the clients to help get their dentures made when they are ready. I talked to the clients on March 17th, they said everything went well and everyone was so nice to them. They were very pleased with the experience they had with the program.

I had a 55-year-old female who was raising her two grandchildren. She was new to the area and didn't know about any of the resources in the area. She had been going to dumpsters around town getting food. She had some medical problems and was on six medications. I did a home visit and was able to help her with three of her medications. I also filled out an application for food stamps and referred her to the food stamp office where she was able to get food stamps also. She called me later and thanked me several times.

This quarter it seems there are more people out of work as a result of the poor economy. I had a 62-year-old lady come into my office for assistance. She had been a social worker for many years and was recently let go. She not only lost her financial security, but her insurance and other benefits that she had enjoyed for such a long time. She had no savings and still had bills to pay. She was forced to give up things that we all take for granted.

I was able to refer her to Community Based Services for emergency food stamp assistance. I helped her to get her blood pressure medication through the Patient Assistance Programs. Since she had lost her insurance, her Pap smear and mammogram were past due. I was able to help her get these preventive services set up through the local health department.

She is now looking for another job. I am so glad that I had a chance to work with this great lady; she has made a big impact on me. It just goes to prove you never know what can happen to you.

Nothing gets to your heart like a child in need. A lady called my office this quarter to seek help for her son. She was upset because his glasses were broken on the school bus when they had fallen off his face and another child had stepped on them. The glasses couldn't be repaired and her son had not been able to go to school because he could not see without his glasses.

I immediately set up a visit with the mother and was able to provide them with a Sight for Students form that would pay for the little boy's eye exam and new glasses. We then called a local eye-care facility and were able to get him appointment the same day. Within a matter of a few hours, he had his new glasses and was able to return to school the next day.
